

LUKE

The third book of the New Testament

Was Luke one of the 12 Disciples?

A painting of a man with a white beard and a green garment, with the word "NO." overlaid in large white letters. The man has a serious expression and is looking slightly to the left. The background is dark and textured. The word "NO." is written in a bold, sans-serif font, with a period at the end. The overall tone is somber and dramatic.

NO.

A stained glass window depicting the Evangelist Luke. Luke is shown from the chest up, with long, wavy brown hair and a full brown beard. He is wearing a purple robe and holding a quill pen in his right hand. To his left is the head of a white horse, and to his right is a large, brown feather. The background is dark with red and gold patterns. The text "What was Luke's Occupation?" is overlaid in white, bold, sans-serif font.

What was Luke's Occupation?

A dark, semi-transparent overlay of a religious painting, likely depicting a doctor or scholar, is centered in the image. The figure has long, wavy brown hair and a beard, and is shown in profile, writing in a large, open book with a quill. The background of the painting is dark, and the figure's clothing includes a blue sleeve and a red garment. Overlaid on this image is the word "Doctor." in a large, bold, white, sans-serif font, positioned centrally.

Doctor.

Who was Luke's audience?

The background is a dark, textured painting. In the center, a man's face is depicted with a somber expression, looking slightly to the right. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the contours of his face. In the bottom right corner, there is a greenish-gold, metallic-looking object that appears to be a piece of armor or a decorative element, possibly a helmet or a breastplate, with intricate details and a shimmering texture.

Theophilus. And then the Gentiles.

The EVANGELIST
